THE SOURCE OF OUR LIFE IS JESUS

The title “saints” was used in the early church to describe those called and in covenant with God through Christ. The church has an elaborate and careful process to determine whom we officially call “Saints.” We incorporate many of these into our liturgical calendar. But even as we venerate certain “acknowledged” Saints, let’s not dismiss our own identity and dignity received through, what the Book of Revelation describes as, “the Blood of the Lamb ” – the life, death and resurrection of Christ. His risen life blood flows in our veins and so we can truthfully call each other “saints.” In doing so we would not be claiming anything we have done or deserve for ourselves, but have received through the gift of grace. We have been called to holiness by God and are given the gifts we need to live holy, sainted lives.

The Lord is the vine,
of life and energy!

Because the light of saints has been so brilliant, we raise them up for all to see so that the rest of us can be enlightened and have hope. If God could shine such light through Mary, Joseph, Dominic, Catherine of Siena, Francis and Clare, then God can do that even in us! Keep us: strong in times of trials and doubts; courageous when challenged; compassionate to the broken; wise for those who are searching; outspoken when others hold a fearful down those on the margins; gentle and strong in the face of what opposes the gospel.

The Beatitudes in today’s gospel aren’t a list of commandments we have to live by if we want to follow Jesus. Instead, they show how we can live when the source of our life is Jesus. Because of him we are “Blessed,” our lives reflect a profound change in us, the result of his grace, which enables us to be: poor in spirit, gentle, merciful, peacemakers, etc.

In our second reading, John puts it another way “... we are God’s children now.” This feast is about NOW; about our union with one another and the great “cloud of witnesses” who have preceded us. Today’s feast reminds us of those who are now gazing on God’s brilliance and that we are in communion with them through our prayers and memory. And, because of their lives, we can have hope for our own!

We are already the saints of God, not because we have earned a great reward or have gone through life unblemished by sin, but because of the mercy of God manifested in Jesus. “Salvation comes from our God, who is seated on the throne and from the Lamb.” When Paul addressed the Christians as the saints in his epistles, he was not only talking about their future glory, but their present status.

Fr Peter Toan Nguyen OP, PP

We are doing well with COVID here in Australia, but we remember our family and friends from around the world. May all the Saints make your burden light and the blessings heavy. ## COMMEMORATION OF ALL THE FAITHFUL DEPARTED A REFLECTION

The Catechism describes Purgatory as the “final stage of purification of the elect,” and makes the point that this purification “is entirely different from the punishment of the damned.”

Purgatory can thus be described as “an initial stage of heavenly glory, suited to those who are saints but who need a moment to adjust their garments—that is, the good deeds in which they are dressed—before making their entrance into the wedding banquet which lasts forever.”

The Catechism clarifies why Purgatory is needed: “Every sin, even venial, entails an unhealthy attachment to creatures, which must be purified either here on earth, or after death, in the state called Purgatory.”

The purification of Purgatory is “punishment”. But the Catechism tells us that it “must not be thought of as a kind of vengeance inflicted by God from without, but as following from the very nature of sin.” It is rather, self-inflicted punishment, which, in God’s mercy, is purifying or healing.

The practice of prayer and penance which marks the Commemoration of All the Faithful Departed and, indeed, the month of November, deepens our solidarity with those who have died. In the words of St John Paul II, “Just as in their earthly life believers are united in the one Mystical Body, so after death those who live in a state of purification experience the same ecclesial solidarity which works through prayer and love for their brothers and sisters in the faith.”

Finally this Commemoration can renew our trust that God in Christ, offers us in time, the healing and purification that the faithful departed, for whom we pray, experience in eternity.

In May 2019 Catholic Professional Standards Ltd (CPSL) published the National Catholic Safeguarding Standards. More than 20 church entities have been audited to date to assess the extent to which they are implementing necessary safeguards for children, with audits revealing a strong commitment and dedicated action to create child safe environments. Since late 2019, CPSL has been working to expand the Standards to include protections for adults engaging with Church ministry. This lecture will explore some of the trends and findings emerging from CPSL’s audit work, as well as the directions of the groundbreaking framework for the safeguarding of adults.
